

Winds of changes have been blowing at NAD in the past few months. Time doesn't exist on Lembeh, not even underwater. It's been more than 1 year now since the first stone was placed in this little haven, and only 3 months since the last room was finally completed.

Beginnings are never easy and Bernard and Julia spent many hours, days and months building one of these dreams that appear to you without prior notice and which you are then eager to come true.

NAD is now starting to become a popular resort and dive center in the Strait, and big efforts have been made by all the staff and us, to complete Bernard's and Julia's dream.

We are happy to see that all this efforts are really valuable and worth, nothing can pay the smile of a guest or the look in his/her face dive after dive, day after day, and even the mixed filling of sadness/happiness the day they have to start their trip back home.

Our staff is growing slowly in all areas of the resort, all of them are a part of the mechanism that makes your stay an enjoyable and unforgettable one.

April was our very first big test when we had the resort full for the first time. Nothing is perfect, specially in the beginning, but despite the difficulties we had and the sleepless nights we spent, our guests managed to complete all their dives and we had a great feedback from all of them. Thanks to all for your understanding and support.

Now is July already, 2 months of hard work have made possible the resort to be finally 100% operational, and we are happy to see how more and more guests are deciding to stay and dive with us. We already passed our 2nd big test successfully!

The diving...what to say! Everyday our experienced, avid dive guides surprise us and our guests with different findings and critters. What a pleasure to see the smiles of our guests returning dive after dive with memory sticks full and not able to name all the critters they have encountered!

Thanks to all for sharing your holidays with us, and for those who have not yet, all at NAD are looking forward to welcoming you soon!
